

CALL FOR EMERGING
SCHOLAR IN RESIDENCE
APPLICATIONS

Amerind Museum, Dragoon, AZ, seeks Scholar in Residence applications from emerging scholars who are still early in their careers. The selected scholars must be in residence in Amerind housing for 1 month at a time to be determined between the selected scholar and Amerind staff. This is a competitive process.

The selected scholar will receive housing and a $3,000/month stipend (depending on availability of funding). The scholar will be asked to give a public talk about their work. We welcome scholars in anthropology, Native American studies, history, and other allied fields. We are seeking scholars who are at the beginning of their scholarly careers. We particularly welcome scholars who come from communities who are under-represented in their respective disciplines.

Note: The scholar must have reliable transportation. The town of Dragoon is 1-hour drive east of Tucson. The closest grocery stores are in Benson, AZ, a 20-minute drive from the Amerind Museum. For more information on Amerind's location visit www.amerind.org.

To Apply: Please answer the questions below. You may answer these in an email. You may send a document electronically via email. Email all responses, documents, and other files to ekaldahl@amerind.org.

Answer All Questions:

- 1) Name
- 2) Address
- 3) Phone Number
- 4) Email
- 5) Send us your curriculum vitae.
- 6) Provide 2 letters of reference from your professional mentors.
- 7) Answer the following essay question: How will this residency help you with your growth and development as scholar? (500 words maximum)
- 8) Please send us 1 writing sample

Review of applications is ongoing. A committee of senior scholars will select the winning applicant(s). Amerind staff will reach out to selected scholars with more details about when their residency may occur.

Questions? Contact Eric Kaldahl at the Amerind Museum, 520-586-3666 or by email at ekaldahl@amerind.org.